

Documentation

Currently, documentation about this program/project is available in the following forms:

- All of the programs/tasks are capable to provide a shorter and a longer list of command line help options and description that are available via the `--help` and `--long-help` options, respectively. The `--help` option simply lists the available options and switches with a minimalist references of the actual syntax while `--long-help` gives a detailed description.
- All of the programs/tasks are capable to provide a Mediawiki-formatted output about the available options by using the `--wiki-help` command line argument.
- You can find a more detailed summary about the specific programs/tasks here.
- See also the Examples section of this web page.

Please provide feedback if the documentation seems to be incomplete and/or inconsistent.
